Filtration Of Water Supplies

The quality of water for human consumption depends upon the polluting and purifying influences to which it has been subjected before reaching the consumer. It is well known that the general health of a community using a sewage polluted water gradually falls lower and lower and the death rate increases proportionately. Of the diseases most frequently following the use of an impure water, typhoid fever holds, at the present day, the most prominent position in the public eye. It is a curious fact, as yet unexplained, that the change from an impure water to a pure supply diminishes the sickness and death rate, not only from typhoid fever but also from tuberculosis, pneumonia, and other serious diseases. It is also a fact that in certain cities using a sewage polluted water the death rate from typhoid fever is many times more than that for cities using a filtered water supply taken from the same source.

Generally speaking, there are two methods in use for the filtration of public water supplies: they are known as the "Slow Sand" filtration and "Mechanical" filtration. In the former type, the water filters through beds of sand and gravel at varying rates of from two to five million gallons per acre every twenty four hours, according to the character of the water. In mechanical filtration, a precipitate is first added to the water, which is then passed through a medium of sand under pressure, the rate of filtration being many times more than in the slow sand filters.

The type of filter best suited for any particular water must be carefully considered before adoption by a municipality and this can only be done by a competent sanitary engineer. When either system can be used, it resolves itself into a question of primary cost and annual maintenance. The slow sand filters cost approximately, $30,000 per million gallons of the daily consumption and about ten per cent of this per annum for operating; while a mechanical filter costs about one-fourth, and, if carefully operated, a high degree of efficiency as regards purification can be obtained. This is well exemplified at Chatham Ontario, where for some years filters of this latter class have been in operation, the water treated being that of the river Thames.

Saving Electricity

Tungsten lamps are coming to the front because they save electricity. In appearance, their only difference from the ordinary carbon filament incandescent lamp is that the filament is constructed of tungsten instead of carbon. But in actual use, it has been proved that they use only about one-third as much current as a carbon lamp to produce a light of the same illuminating power. True, their first cost is greater (approximately three times as much), but this is counterbalanced by the saving in current effected. They have one weak point however. That is the case with which the delicate tungsten filament is broken.

On this account great care has to be exercised in installing them, and it is for this reason, too, that they cannot be economically used as portable lamps. Yet, when carefully handled, they have a long lease of life. In England, where they are used much more extensively than here, it is quite common for them to last 3,000 hours, and one instance is on record where a tungsten lamp burned continuously for over 15,000 hours. Even when allowance is made for more frequent breakage, the tungsten lamp shows saving over the carbon of about fifty per cent. That is an economy not to be despised and points to the much greater use for stationary lighting purposes.

September Athletic World

The September number of "THE ATHLETIC WORLD" magazine has just reached this office. In up-to-date sport affairs and illustrations it is strikingly stronger than the August issue, which created such a favorable impression as a Canadian athletic and outdoor periodical, covering all branches of sport in Canada, with a liberal number of sport happenings over the world generally. We predict a full measure of success for "THE ATHLETIC WORLD" in its able efforts to espouse the cause of good sport in this Dominion.

Criminal Carelessness

Toronto, Sept. 27.—"I had to remove the bodies of patients from the diptheria and scarlet fever wards, and also the politicians and the garbage. I had to send up the milk. I dipped it out of the cans into bottles and put them on the dunn-waiter. I did not take any precautions. I never received orders that I had to disinfect myself."

These statements made by Wm. Russell second engineer of the isolation hospital, after persistent questioning by Corporal Counsel Dr. Ayton in the hospital enquiry, constituted by far the most damaging criticism of the management of affairs at the hospital brought out by the investigation.

The engineer in his evidence showed that he had gone into both the diptheria and the scarlet fever wards on the same day without disinfecting himself in any way, had removed dead bodies, taken infected mattresses to pieces, and had then handled the milk supply of the hospital.

Hungry Wife Ruining Him

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 24.—Saying that his wife, Christine, ate six pounds of beef a day and about 15 pounds of vegetables, Alec Sanderson, a burly Norwegian, went to Superior Court Judge Tallman and asked for a divorce.

Mrs. Sanderson is 22 years of age, six feet high, and weighs 350 pounds. She has a wonderful appetite and, according to her husband, it costs him more to feed her than he is able to earn. He has watched her eat up all the bedstead, potatoes and bread and still be hungry so many times that his own form has swindled to 124 pounds.

Sanderson is a bricklayer by trade and earns about $100 a month the year around, but his meat bill is $75 a month.

Canada's Mission in the "Federation of the World."

(From The Canadian Textile Journal.)

Thanks to a good Providence that has guided them in times of threatened rupture, peace has been maintained between Great Britain and the United States for a hundred years, and in the closing years of this century of mutual good-will these nations have given new proof of their desire to perpetuate the peace by entering a century-old dispute—the Newfoundland fisheries—difficultly to arbitration by The Hague Tribunal. These are among the first great nations to yield to this new international court the arbitration of a grave and ancient controversy.

In the last conflict between Great Britain and the United States the carriage ground was Canada—a country in no way responsible for the trouble, but vicariously suffering the woes of a three years' war, which terminated without settling the cause of dispute, nor even mentioning it in the treaty of peace. It was a war which, in its origin and ending, and in the miseries it inflicted on an innocent people, illustrated to the world the futility of wholesale butchery as a means of settling questions of equity or moral principles. It had its individual heroes, but as a war it has been regarded, from both sides, with a shame and regret by the generations who have followed. This feeling of wholesome repentance is expressed in the sincere attempt to find new grounds on which the two nations may co-operate, and in seeking to win and to deserve each other's respect and good will.

It is proposed to commemorate the signing on Christmas Eve, 1814, of the peace that has been kept for a hundred years between the United States and Great Britain by such memorials as will help to prolong this peace through the ages and become a sign and example to all nations. Canadians are responding warmly to the advances made across the border, and the brightest minds of both countries realize that taking this supreme occasion by the hand, it is possible to start the world on a new path whereby good-will and reason may be enthroned in the place of force as the arbiter of national disputes.

Cession from war among the great nations does not mean that the world shall relapse into idle luxury or political or social stagnation, but that national energies shall be directed to turning the material resources of the earth into the service of all, and especially of the millions to whom life now brings little but misery, and that the thoughts of men shall be devoted to the reconstruction and not the destruction of national life.

The influences that are tending to this reconstruction of society are rapidly accumulating. The staggering burden of the armaments now maintained by the leading nations; the inevitable increase of this load by new inventions, which are constantly altering its conditions and adding to its cost; the undue pressure of this burden upon that part of the community least able to bear it; the growing willingness of the leaders of great nations to substitute some code of international law for the unrestrained will of any one nation, however powerful; the growing tendency when men meet in conventions and assemblies to expand these meetings from local or national ones into international ones, and to deal with subjects from standpoint of their effect on the world and not merely upon the nation—these are among the influences that are leading all races to understand that they have more to gain by co-operation than by antagonism.

Within the last five years these various influences have led to the formation of peace societies, arbitration leagues, international clubs, international scientific and other organizations, more or less world-embracing in their aims. As nations derive most of their antipathies from the ignorance due to separation, such movements as these will disarm suspicions and let in wholesome light.

The interest taken throughout the United States in the question of the world's peace, and especially the question of peaceful relations with the Anglo-Saxon peoples, is remarkable. During the last few years peace societies and arbitration leagues have been formed in various States, and much literature has been circulated and educational addresses given on the subject. In June last a resolution was adopted by Congress creating a Commission of five to advise upon the limitation of armaments and the turning of the navies of the world into an international force for the preservation of the world's peace. Other organizations have been formed for the specific purposes of celebrating the centenary of Anglo-Saxon-American peace.

This happy result is in part a natural response to the friendship for the American people constantly shown by Queen Victoria and King Edward—a friendship which may well be said to be the keynote of the foreign policy of those great monarchs, and which we may be sure will consistently be maintained by King George. Canada, above all parts of the Empire, must now appreciate the immense service rendered to our race by these far-seeing rulers, whose regard for the American nation has been rewarded with such reciprocity of good-will and esteem. The true Imperialism of our Empire, which places its power at the service of the whole world must have the active sympathy and participation of the United States. Hence, Canada's high mission is to promote this "federation of the world" by extending the hand of welcome to both the mother and daughter nations to hasten their destined reconciliation.

Woman Pummels Hello Girl

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 29.—Incensed over the repetition of the phrase "Line's busy," while she and her guests were delayed at bridge whist because of an absent friend, Miss Hazel Gillen, daughter of John Gillen, prominent horseman and ice manufacturer of Fayette City, Pa., left her home and her guests to investigate the local Bell Telephone exchange and learn the reason why she could not get telephone connections with a young woman she wanted to "fill in."

Trouble was found, and plenty of it, when Miss Gillen reached the head of the first flight of stairs at the exchange. A whirlwind in the form of the abused "central," Miss Lillian Usher, enveloped her, and a second later both young women were rolling down the stairs and on to the sidewalk in each other's arms.

With their skirts wrapped about their shoulders the young women took a "death grip" on the sidewalk when they stopped rolling, and to the amusement of a number of men and boys, proceeded to pull hair and attempt to choke each other, until one man stepped forward righted their skirts and separated the fighters. Hair "rats," side combs and barrettes, and one switch, the ownership of which neither of the young women will acknowledge, littered the sidewalk.

In the meantime the father of Miss Gillen was entertaining the guests at the Gillen home, but within a few minutes the bridge party was broken up, when the hostess, with her hair hanging down her back, a deep scratch on one cheek, a black and blue eye and her evening costume in tatters, was assisted to the porch and into the hall, where a maid and her father took charge and carried the young woman to her room. Miss Usher was asked to resign. She escaped with only a few bruises and one slight scratch. The technical charge made against her by the telephone company is leaving her switchboard while on duty.

Strange Fatality

Teeswater, Ont., Sept. 26.—Conductor G. R. Campbell, stepping from one car to another of a way freight at Wroxeter, when the cars parted, and falling to the ground broke his ankle Monday afternoon. He was carried home on a car door. The latter was used by his six year old son, Charlie, for sliding, when the little lad fell, striking the back of his head on the door, and died in a short time the same evening.

STATISTICS IN MEDICINE

OLD REMEDIES RETAIN THEIR POPULARITY

Investigations of French Physicians Show that Large Production of Synthetic Medicines is Not Crowding Out the Old Favorites.

A late despatch from Paris says:—Prof. Grimbart presented a notable paper before the Academy of Medicine on therapeutic tendencies in the last ten years. Basing his figures on medicines furnished to 219 large asylums and hospitals by the State Pharmacy, he finds that the old-fashioned medicines retain their popularity.

An expert authority on being interviewed states that the tendencies of the medical profession in Canada are along exactly the same lines. He gives the following old-fashioned vegetable mixture as the safest and best treatment for all stomach and liver troubles, constipation, disorder of the kidneys and bladder, and states that many of the leading physicians use these ingredients in some form, often by some fancy and expensive name: Fluid Extract Cascara, ½ oz.; Compound Syrup of Rubarb, 1 oz.; Fluid Extract Carline Compound, 1 oz.; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, 5 oz. Take one teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

This acts in a pleasant way, and is free from the bad effects of strong purgatives and synthetics. We advise all our readers to cut this valuable formula out and use it. Any druggist can supply these ingredients at a small expense. You can mix them at home if you prefer.

AROUND THE TOWN

Several from Crossfield were at Bowden fair day, and all report a very good fair and a big crowd.

On Oct. 5th there is to be a Ladies' Aid meeting at the home of Mrs. Bliss three miles and a half south of Crossfield.

L.C. Newsom is in Acme this week looking after the News, while F. H. Schooley is here shipping his household goods to Acme.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Willis went to Bowden Wednesday Mr. Willis to attend the fair, Mrs. Willis remaining for an extended visit with relatives.

On Sept. 7th there was a postponed Ladies Aid meeting at the Parsonage. Mrs. Smith entertained the ladies beautifully after the meeting.

Rev. McNeil returned Saturday from Red Deer, where he had spent the preceding week. He preached the anniversary sermon of the Presbyterian church while there.

Jack Martin left Friday on a trip up north on real estate business Mrs. Martin accompanied him as far as Lacombe where she visited with her parents for a few days.

The Crossfield Agricultural Society has decided to hold a fall race meeting on October 21st. Preparations are going ahead and it is sure to be good sporting event, weather permitting.

Harry Mann is making big improvements in his pool hall. He has this week added another table to his equipment, and has very much enlarged the hall. He is also having the building finished and painted. J. A. Sackett is doing the work.

Saturday evening a horse belonging to Mr. Schumann, driven by Mr. Bills, was left standing untied in front of Mr. Timmins' residence while the driver went inside to leave a parcel. The horse for some reason we have been unable to learn started to run and in its erratic course ran into a rig which was tied to the fence surrounding the station grounds, smashing this rig up considerably.

Local News

The young people are holding a social ball in I. O. O. F. hall on Friday evening, September 30.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Schumann and little daughter left Thursday for a visit of several weeks in the States. Mr. Schumann will put in considerable time inspecting Florida land while away.

Fatal Gun Accident

George Wilson, age 15, living with his parents fourteen miles east of Crossfield, while out hunting on September 18, was attacked by excited steers. He shot at one and another was chasing him when he caught his foot and fell. The gun, a .22 calibre rifle, was discharged, the ball piercing the anterior abdomen, passing through the body and coming out through the spinal column. Dr. Tauger was immediately called, and did everything possible for the boy, but the wound proved fatal and he died on Friday the 23rd. The funeral took place Sunday, the remains being laid to rest in Crossfield cemetery. The family have been out from England only about four months.

Football Challenge

The Modern Woodman of America Camp 13863 of Crossfield wishes to meet the Independent order of Oddfellows, Crossfield, in a football match on the Fall fair day. Please accept Challenge, and a good time is expected.

Proceeds to be given to Crossfield Agricultural Society.

Telephone Expansion in Alberta

Calgary, Sept. 29.—The expansion of the telephone system of Alberta is one of the remarkable evidences partly of the use that is being put to the telephones on the one hand and partly of the great growth of the province on the other hand.

The new book for the telephone company shows that there are in the neighborhood of 10,000 telephones.

Calgary leads with 3,174 telephones. Edmonton has 2,364.

The other leading cities and towns are as follows: Lethbridge 722; Strathcona 450; Medicinehat 409; Macleod 234; Wetaskiwin 224; Claresholm 194; Pincher Creek 179; Camrose 169; High River 166; Red Deer 169; Lacombe 155; Stettin 128; Olds 124; Vegreville 119; Fort Saskatchewan 115; Taber 104; Cardston 102; Lloydminster 102; Didsbury 100. All other towns have less than 100 telephones.

Verdict of Murder

London, Sept. 26.—The coroner's jury today returned a verdict of wilful murder against Dr. Crippen in connection with the finding in Crippen's residence last July of the mutilated remains of a body supposed to be Crippen's wife.

The verdict reached by the jury, was to the effect that the mutilated body found buried in the cellar of Crippen's home was that of Cora Crippen, who had been wilfully murdered by Dr. Crippen. The verdict added that the cause of the death was poison by hyocin.

No evidence, beyond that given at the Bow Street Police Court, in the case of Dr. Hawley R. Crippen and Ethel Clara Leneve, his typist, was produced at the resumed inquiry today, of the coroner, into the finding of the mutilated body, believed to be that of Belle Elmore, Crippen's actress wife, in their Hilldrop Crescent residence, and the police made the announcement that they had nothing further to submit.

William Long, who was formerly connected with the accused, and who purchased the boy's suit which Miss Leneve wore when arrested on board the steamer Montrose, off Quebec, was asked by the coroner whether he had ever bought lime. He answered in the negative.

The chemist from whom Dr. Crippen purchased hyocin, traces of which compound Dr. William H. Wilcox, the scientific analyst of the home office, testified he had found in the buried mass of flesh, said that the order for the medicine was given several days before the drug was taken away. He also declared Crippen never personally had purchased hyocin at his pharmacy. The coroner will sum up his case this afternoon.

Millinery Opening at Crossfield

Minister of Militia to Retire

Ottawa, Sept. 28.—The evening journal says: "There is a possibility that Sir Frederick Borden may become lieutenant governor of Nova Scotia in succession to the late Hon. D. C. Fraser."

"It is well known that the minister of militia during late years has lost much of his interest in politics and some time ago expressed a desire to be rid of the cares of office. It may be that the vacancy created by the death of Lieutenant Governor Fraser will suit his ideas of retirement."

"Only two men have been longer in the house than Sir Frederick Borden, namely: Hon. John C. Haggart, father of the house, and Hon. William Patterson."

Gas at Bassano.

Bassano, Alta. Sept. 28.—Bassano is rejoicing today, because after eighteen months of difficult work, gas was struck in paying quantities at the well of the C. P. R. south of the station and as cheering evidence a huge flame from an inserted pipe is blazing tonight.

J. E. Martin who is in charge says that it is the same inexhaustible river of gas which flows under Medicine Hat at a depth of 600 feet.

IF YOU
ARE NOT
A Subscriber to the
CHRONICLE
WHY NOT?

Simply because you will say that you have always been going to call in and give us a dollar for a year's subscription and that something else has always hindered you, or that there are other papers which are better. Then if that is the case, you are entirely wrong in your judgement. It contains the latest local news, of the town and surrounding districts, also the latest local markets and provincial notes relating to the general happenings of the province.

Once you have read the Chronicle you will say, "there is no better paper for the upholding of the town of Crossfield and district than this paper the "CHRONICLE."
